Mukasa is a respected man in Buwaate village. Whenever there is a telephone promotion in Kiira town council, he is always the first person to arrive. His slogan in the village is "Get connected". Many people have nick named him "Get connected"

while at home he uses a landline which his son helped him to install in the house. Whenever he goes to Kiira town council, he carries a mobile telephone.

One day as Mr. Mukasa was washing, his mobile telephone dropped into a basin of hot water. He screamed loudly thinking his telephone had got spoilt but only his sim card got spoilt. He decided to wait for the usual promotion because that is when he would buy the new simcard at a cheaper price. Fortunately, the promotion was there just after two days when his simcard got spoilt.

He bought the new sim card at one thousand shillings only. He was very happy because he was going to get connected again. Five metres away from where the promotion was, he bought an Airtel airtime card worthy two thousand shillings. He loaded it and called his family members to inform them that he had got a new simcard. The only challenge he had was that he had lost his friends' contacts, so he had to call only those ones he had written on a piece of paper which was in his pocket.

To date, Mr. Mukasa will never say anything bad about the airtel network because it is in many parts of the country and very clear.

The Road,
The collecting place for all vehicles.
Where motorists display their means of transport
Cruising in posh land-cruisers and Hummers

While pedestrians suffer the dust showered on them

The Road,
Decorated with zebra crossings,
To allow pedestrians cross busy roads,
Decorated with traffic lights,
To control traffic at junctions.

The Road,
Where traffic police officers show their authority,
Arresting reckless drivers and other bad road users,
Who fail to follow the Highway code,
As a measure to reduce road accidents.

The Road,
The number one killer of innocent people,
Perishing in fatal accidents here and there,
Others trapped at black spots and junctions
What a tragedy!

Naome Naddunga

51. Read the passage below and answer in full sentences the questions that follow.

One evening, I was going back home from school with my mother and the two sisters when we saw an accident near Hotel Africana. A speeding taxi which was heading for Jinja had knocked down a cyclist who was joining the main road at the roundabout.

The cyclist had his legs broken and the passengers in the taxi sustained serious injuries. The motorcycle was damaged beyond repair and the taxi windscreen was completely smashed. My mother parked the car and within a short time, there was a big crowd. The driver of the taxi had taken off and the conductor ran to Jinja Road Police station to report the matter.

In 30 minutes, the traffic officers had arrived. An ambulance was called and the casualties were taken to the hospital for treatment. The people around tried very much to assist by removing the wreckage from the middle of the road. Later, a breakdown toured the taxi to Kampala Road police station.

I really feared because I had never witnessed such an accident. People should try to be very careful when using the road because this accident could have been avoided if the cyclist had been more careful.
